PRINCETON TO MEET YALE AGAIN TO-DAY.

Interest in the Second Combat Is Redoubled-Gossip of the Game.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, June 8 .- The Yale-Princeton baseball game at Princeton to-morrow is the all-important event on the week's athletin calendar. Interest in this second meeting of the two teams is recoubled because the unexpected defeat meted out to Princeton at New Haven last Saturday, when the odds were wholly against the Blue. The outcome of that game, however, Blue. The outcome of that game, however, can hardly be taken as a criterion of the respective merits of the two teams, and Princeton should, unless the unforeseen happens, win to-morrow's game with ease. The Princeton team will probably play in the same way that the men faced Yaie, with the important exception that Under-hill will occupy the box, instead of Stevens. The latter proved to be ineffective last week and the substitution of the star pitcher becomes imperative inasmuch as Princeton must win the commencement-day game from Yale to have any charge at all for from Yale to have any chance at all for championship honors.

The game that Princeton put up against Bucknell on Wednesday was of the most encouraging kind, from a New Jersey standpoint, as they fielded fast and ciean and batted the Bucknell twirler hard. Underhill showed in the few innings that he occupied the box that he is in good form.

With Yale the result of the week's work is bard to tell, inasmuch as the Illinois game, in which the Westerners won out 10-4 as they pleased, was hardly a fair criterion.

provement in batting when Princeton was beaten a week ago to-day, but the victory was due more to the Tigers' errors than to any promounced excellence on the part of the Valerdaus.

The victory of Yale in the first game was unexpected, even at New Haven, and the general opinion is that Princeton will get to-morrow's game. In any event, the team will not bek encouragement, as the students have thoroughly rehearsed their songs and cheers. Meler is the weak spot on Princeton's team, and he has been early not been captured in this direction.

It is possible that he may keep after Harper, as the contract signed by that player calls for his services until the close of the land of the contract signed by that player calls for his services until the close of the land on the contract signed by that player calls for his services until the close of the land capture count docket he would not continue the fight further.

serve clause including the present season. Therefore, if they are not enjoined by any court from playing with the Browns this season, the old contract, even supposing they had lived up to it, will have expired October 15, of the present year, and the only action that could then be taken against them would be a suit for damages, which likely will not materialize.

It is understood that the overruling of the motion of the National League club for the advancement of the case of waltace applies also to those of Harper and Heidrick. The Supreme Court has a heavy docket and, taking each case in turn, can hardly reach those of the bail players before next fall at least and probably months later.

The National League club will, therefore, be without the services of these players during the present season. If the bapties Court should reverse the ruling of the St. Louis Circuit Court, which is not considered probable, Mr. Hobison might then be able to obtain an injunction against Harper restraining him from playing with any other club than the Cardinals in 1803.

Lawyers representing both cubs appeared before the court when the appeal for advancement was considered. Apparently the Supreme Court Judges from a hasty review of the case were not kindly disposed toward a reversal, and in denying the appeal for advancement they practically close the case at least as far as Heidrick and Wallace are concerned, for If no decision is handed down within the next four months it will do the National League club regards the matter as practically closed, and is congratulating himself on his success in keeping the present line-up of the Browns intact.

After an absence of a month and two days the Krowns returned last night.

After an absence of a month and two days the Browns returned last night, coming in over the Vandalia at 9 o'clock. Jack Harper and Billy Maloney were accompanied by their wives, and went out to the Normandle, while the rest of the players and Manager McAleer, pretty well fagged out from their long journey, scattered to their various places of abode. Charley Hemphill, the ex-Cardinal, who was signed on Thursday, will be here this morning, coming down from Cleveland with the Boston team.

Secretary Hedges has been very busy with Secretary Hedges has been very busy with the improvements at the Grand avenue park for the last few days, and has wrought many pleasing changes. The outfield is well sodded and the infield is a smooth carpet of green. The stands have been stripped of the woodwork which surrounded the cement, and the paint will be applied later on. This afternoon the Browns will open the second home series against Boston, with Jack Powell in the box. Dineen probably will do the twirling for Boston. Cy Young, the old Cardinal's favorite, and his side partner, Lou Criger, will constitute the Boston battery that will work to-morrow. Hemphill probably will replace Maloney in right field to-day. Minneapolis, June 6.—Minneapolis won both games with Malkaukee this afternoon by superior fielding and batting and better work sill around. Curley had his thumb split open in the first game. Grant, formerly of Milwaukee, played become for the locals to-day. Attendance, 112. Score: Window GAMP.

The Browns are not satisfied with their showing in the East and declare that they received some raw deals from the umpires in Philadelphia. The team is not hitting up to a standard gait, but an improvement may be expected in the home series.

Jesse Burkett's Worcester, Mass., friends presented him with a beautiful diamond shirt stud on his first appearance in Boston. Boston are a fast lot and he is not proud of his batting record up to date.

Big John Anderson has not been with the team since he sustained a badly split hand catching a foul fly in Philadelphia. He went to his home in Worcester, Mass. but is expected in this morning. Friei will continue at the initial sack until Anderson gets in whats.

There is no denying that Secretary Hedges is game and willing to go the limit. Though he might be better satisfied with the recent showing of the Browns he is just as confident of winning that pennant as he ever was. He believes that the Browns will soon better their position and declares that by July 10 they will be running one-two.

"I note that Harney Dreyfuse issues a challenge on behalf of the Pittsburg club for a series of postseason games between the Pirates and the team that whis the pennant in the American League this season," said he yesterday. "Well, if the Browns capture the bunting, and I figure them contenders all the way, Mr. Dreyfuss can have his ambition gratified and at our Browns capture the bunting, and I figure them contenders all the way. Mr. Dreyfuss can have his ambition gratified and at our expense—that is if he can turn the trick.

"I am not personally in favor of a side bet of any kind, but if Mr. Dreyfus so desires, I can find him a man in St. Louisperhaps a stockholder in the club—who is willing to back the Browns for $5,000 or more in case they land in first place this year. And I won't have to hunt for the man more than a few minutes. I would favor a series divided between the two home cities with the deciding game, if it narrows down to that played in a neutral city. If we get there Mr. Dreyfuss may consider his groposition accepted.

"The race in the American League is a corker, but just wait until the summer is well advanced and then note what position the Browns are occupying. Cleveland looks very strong at present, and, in fact, all of the teams are contenders at present, but I can't figure it anything but a warm tilt between the Browns and White Sox for the bunting. Meantime, Mr. Dreyfuss can continue pampering his high-priced bunch of players. If he does, perhaps by fall they will be too fat to play ball, and the task of subdaing their uncurbed spirits and reducing the size of their enlarged craniums may be an easy matter."

The entrance to the grand stand and pa-

ing the size of their enlarged craniums may be an easy matter."

The entrance to the grand stand and pavillon at the Grand Avenue Park has been opened and hereafter the big gate at Spring and Sullivan avenues will be the only entrance to these sections of the park. The Grand and Sullivan entrance has been given over entirely to the bleachers. The Spring avenue cars will set down patrons at the main entrance. A board walk has been constructed from Grand avenue to Spring along the Sullivan avenue side of the park for those who go out on the Grand avenue line. The carriage entrance is now on the Spring avenue side, immediately back of the park office pavillon, and the park office has been moved over near the main entrance, under the east end of the grand stand.

The Cardinals are scheduled for a double header at Philadelphia to-day. Murphy and Wicker probably will do the twirling for St. Louis, though Dunham may be worked in one of the games, and possibly Popp. Jack O'Neill will do the backstopping in both games unless Ryan is sufficiently recovered to use his throwing hand.

ley Yerkes, a Philadelphia boy, opposed Voorhees and was batted hard. The Quakers luckily got in their long drives when men were on the bases and easily led from the start. The score was 8 to 5.

Logovan's men made a game hid in the minth inning, but the best they could do was to get two men across the plate, and they still lacked three runs of a tie when the third out was registered. Jack O'Neil, the Scranton boy, who is well known in Philadelphia, caught a clever game, which many of his friends wilmessed. It was he who add the foundation for the Cardinals first run after they had drawn ciphers for four runnings. Homer Smoot rejedned the team here, and resumed his old place in center.

Philadelphia started off with a pair of runs in the opener, and came back in the Philadelphia started on with a pair or runs in the opener, and came back in the second with four more. Browne scored the fourth run on Barry's single. Three Runs in the Fifth Inning.

O'Neill began the fifth inning with a clean single to center. Yerkes fouled out, but Farrell walked. Patsy Donovan then rapped out a timely hit that scored his catcher. Smoot was put away in short order, but Barclay prefited by Huiswitz's bad throw to Douglass, the error allowing Farrell and Donovan to score. The sixth inning was a blank for both sides, but the Quakers registered another pair of runs in the seventh. The Cardinals drew three more goose eggs, but in the ninth it seemed that they had a good chance to the up the game, but Voorhees refused to weaken and two runs was the best finish the visitors could put on a rather dull game.

GOSSIP OF THE QUARTER STRETCH. Why Dominick Rode Goss With Long

Men often get in bad on a race track. A wise man bet a lot of money on Joe Goss wise man bet a lot of money on Joe Goss yesterday. Dominick was riding him. While at the post the wise men observed that Dominick held a very long rein on the horse. As Dominick always likes to ride with a short rein, and as a short rein generally is best, anyhow, the man bawled: "Watch Goss! Look at that rein Dominick has! Nothing doing to-day! I'm a big sucker. Wish I had that bet off."
"I saw Bill Phillips trainer of the Cook has! Nothing doing to-day! I'm a big sucker. Wish I had that bet off."

"I saw Bill Phillips, trainer of the Cook stable, and Dominick's manager betting on John Grigsby," cut in a listener.

"Murder!" roared the backer of Goss. "This is the nuts!"

Dominick beat the flag five lengths with Goss and won by so deing. John Grigsby was about twenty pounds the best horse, but got off badly. Mr. Phillips was simply backing his opinion when he played John Grigsby. He was right, but the good work of his hoy at the break lost him his bet. Dominick was riding Goss with a loose rein, because Goss must be ridden that way to do his best.

Whin Hughie's down and Jerry's up, Can Bingal bate Glinwood, ye Protestant -From the Rubayait of H. McCarren, Jr.

Mr. Dade is not in his best form these days. He misses some good breaks, waiting for some of the bad actors and bad boys with which his fields are filled. He has been overconsiderate of bad actors. How many with which his fields are filled. He has been overconsiderate of bad actors. How many horses has he left at the pest this season? Two, if memory is not faulty. This is a wonderful record.

There is no doubt on earth that Mr. Dade's starting to date has been away the best ever seen at the Fair Grounds and the best in America this season. He has made two really bad starts in some 180 races. It is true that he has been out of form in the last week, principally in delaying fields at the post in consideration of some nasty bad actor. He should leave a few of these.

fifth race yesterday because he waited for Frank Pearce, and refused good breaks from the others to get him away, then finally threw the fing to a bad start. Delays are dangerous and exasperating to the crowd. But it should be remembered that Mr. Dade's starting has been surpassingly fine to date, and that he is entitled to a day off now and then. If there is an official connected with the Fair Association wholly entitled to the confidence and approbation of the profess it is the starter. Just as long as Mr. Dade does not hold the fields too long and use up good, free breakers to assist a sour old sulker, a bad start will be forgiven.

Though Alva II hit most of his fences including the stiff banks he must be rated as a capital green jumper, one of the fastest and nipplest fencers seen since Tennessee's day. He is a short-backed, game-looking horse that should carry weight. They will find it hard to beat him in the West this season.

Betting on a blinkered 2-year-old is a bad proposition. Pettljohn, Fore and Aft and a few others are bad ones to wager on, though they show both speed and stamina. They wear hoods and are bad-tempered

"That Brixton is not a handicap horse," said W. M. Rogers resterday. "But he can do better than he did yesterday. He ran in 1:22. I think he needs a strong boy and whip to get him going. He will win a maiden race some day." Eva Moe seems to labor in the field and to stumble at the fences of the steeplechase course. She evidently favors the track and the hurdles.

Miss Golightly took every one's breath away when she came from behind, went around the field and won going away at seven furlongs. She is supposed to favor five furlongs more than six and to hate seven. She is a fine big mare, and on her race yesterday will take a lot of beating up to a mile,

After Corrigan worked to the mile and After Corrigan worked to the mue and cone-quarter yesterday Doctor Riddle grew joyous, and said: "That St. Louis Derby is mine." Corrigan takes up 113 pounds—same weight as Terra Firms. Neither will win on what they have been doing.

Prince Plenty was a good thing of Harry Brolaski's. He had him up his sleeve for some time. They played him away from home, it is said.

"I was down hard on Parnassus yester-day," said Kirby Orr, "and so was Mr. Nix-on, who owns him. Maybe he was not try-ing. He was left at the post in a bad start," Mr. Orr's word is coin current anywhere. Doubtless Mr. Nixon was trying, but the recent races run by his colt were not of the trying kind. The betting looked bad.

the trying kind. The betting looked bad.

C. Mulhall, son and heir of Colonel Zach, of the famous Oklahoma family, was up on Sam Lazarus yesterday, where it did not seem that Samuel could lose. Judge Brady did not like the idea of a young gentleman rider on a sharp contender, and so spoke to Mr. Gay, who trains Lazarus.

"The boy can ride," said Mr. Gay. "We are betting on the horse. He will win."

The Mulhalls all can ride, but this young gentleman is scarce a race rider. Probably he has the inherited talent, but has scarce groveled in the stable long enough. They must live in the stable long enough. They must live in the stable long enough. They must live in the stable long enough the corps and work horses every day to become riders. Living at a hotel, wearing nice clothes, going to college and riding for fun does not make jockeys. With a good ride Lazarus could not have lost. Mr. Mulhall's boy was lucky to get him into the money.

When it came to the last race, Mr. Gay Mulhall's boy was lucky to get him into the money.

When it came to the last race, Mr. Gay wanted to ride the youngster on Lofter. This is a fast mare, who has run Theory to an eyelash, and has been right there in 1.50. The boy's ride on Leasures was not good enough to placate Mr. Brady. So he interdicted the mount on Lofter. Then Mr. Gay got Ransch, the best boy at the track, Lofter ran nowhere.

"Now look there," said Mr. Gay. "My lad could not have done worse. He might have done better and this lad cost me is."

MUSH MAKES MISERY.

The old theory that mush makes a prac-The old theory that mush makes a practical diet has been exploded by modern scientific research, by physicians of great repute, such as Chittendon, of Yale, and men of like scientific fame. It has been proven that mush is in a class with indigestible wheat cakes, black coffee and like dietic crimes. Mush lies in the stomach, a pasty, indigestible mass, fermenting and producing discomfort and indigestion.
